SYNOPSIS

The background of this play is a mythical and anonymous kingdom, situated on an island in the North Sea. The entire action of the play takes place in the private office of King Eric VIII, on the second floor of the royal palace. In the first act it is afternoon of the day the Queen is to leave for America. In the second act it is evening two months later with the government in a political crisis. In the third act it is morning a week later and is the day of the royal wedding between Princess Anne and Prince William.
