

— IN DEDICATION —

Our production is dedicated to our friend, Dennis Baumwoll, for his commitment to the artistic growth of theatre at Bucknell. Joining the English Department faculty in 1965, Dennis acted in and directed several Cap and Dagger and Department of Theatre & Dance productions. We celebrate the great joy and gusto with which he approached everything and everyone — from teaching, acting, and directing to his weekly coffee with friends. He touched so many of us in ways great and small, and his impact will be felt in the halls of Bucknell and the streets of Lewisburg for generations to come. We are better for having known him.

Dennis directed Ben Jonson's The Alchemist in 1970.

Dennis played Tilden in Sam Shepard's Buried Child in 1982, directed by W. David Hancock.

Dennis in rehearsal for Maxim Gorky's Philistines in 1988, directed by Robert Gainer.

Dennis in rehearsal for John O'Keeffe's Wild Oats in 1986, directed by Robert Gainer.
